

International Experience in Building Construction

McWhorter School of Building Science

- ▶ In the spring of 2010, a small group of Auburn Building Science students will collaborate with Auburn School of Nursing students on a Service Learning Study Abroad trip to Quito, Ecuador. The trip will be for 10 days and may be done in conjunction with a typical semester schedule. While in Ecuador, BSCI students will work on a construction site assisting local builders using technology common for third world countries. Students also have an opportunity to visit the “Middle of the World” and experience the famous “Zip Line” over the rainforest. We anticipate that total costs for the trip will be approximately $2,200. Applications for the trip are due September 11, 2009. Please attend one of the information sessions for more information.
